S. P. BARES PLAN FOR HUGE CARQUINEZ BRIDGE

San Joaquin River Yields Antoine Victim's Body

LARGE SPAN TO REPLACE FERRY LINE

A huge bridge costing several million dollars will be thrown across Carquinez straits according to plans prepared by engineers of the Southern Pacific company. This work was received from New York last night where the board of directors definitely decided to erect a massive steel span across the straits.

The structure, which will be one of the greatest railway bridges in the world, replacing the present ferry line running from Port Costa to Benicia, will cut many minutes from the running time of the Southern Pacific trains.

Plans for the span have been under preparation by engineers of the company for many months.

Decision by the Southern Pacific company to invest in a bridge at this time is largely based on the growing demand for faster schedule between bay points and the east. Work on the structure is expected to begin in the near future.

El Dorado Company Anxious To Locate On Richmond Site

Many inquiries are being made by local merchants and property owners regarding the seeming delay in closing the deal by which the El Dorado Oil company will be secured to Richmond and establish its great coconut oil plant and shipping terminal on the West Side of the Inner Harbor.

It is understood that on May 9, last, President W. B. Reis, of the copra crushing concern wrote the city council urging haste in settling final details and stating definite terms of location.

TWO SACKS OF BONES, FLESH ARE RECOVERED

Acting on a confession gained from Arthur Antoine, convicted Oakland wife slayer, by his sweetheart, Lila Stovall, 18, Oakland police yesterday discovered two sacks of human flesh and bones, all that is left of Mrs. Antoine, at a spot in the San Joaquin river designated by the slayer.

Advised of the discovery, Antoine said, shrugging his shoulders: "I told you so."

It was Antoine, ninth statement concerning disposition of the body.

Antoine, itinerant automobile mechanic, killed his wife on January 14 or 15, he has never been sure of the date, that he might marry Lila Stovall, 18, with whom he became infatuated at Camp Seco. He brought Miss Stovall to his home as his bride a few days after the murder. She had been informed that his first wife had died, but when neighbors told her the wife had been seen at the home only a few days before, she became suspicious.

'Going Good', Is Word From Birdmen Winging Way Towards Honolulu

BY UNITED PRESS
Captain Charles Kingsbury-Smith and his three companions in the Southern Cross were approximately half way between the United States and Hawaii at 9:50 last night, according to a message received from the plane.

Their message designated the latitude and longitude of the plane's position, which at the point of interception was about 1190 land miles from San Francisco. Their average speed must have been nearly 90 miles an hour to have reached that point.

When the Southern Cross passed the mid-Pacific point, it had completed the worst part of the journey. The weather bureau predicted before morning that trade winds would favor the fliers and increase their speed to 100 miles an hour.

At 11:40 last night the following message was received: "All well. In communication with the S. S. Malika. Trying get bearings. Now SU'll see you when I've finished."

Three Dead In Rioting At Belgrade

BELGRADE, May 31.—(U.P.)—Troops, police, mounted gendarmes, and firemen clashed today with anti-Italian demonstrators in the worst riots which have occurred here since the war. Three were known dead, sixty students and police were wounded, some seriously, scores were arrested, and tonight semi martial law prevailed with the streets heavily patrolled by troops and mounted police.

Opponents of the government's Italian policy had bettered their desks to pieces in their anger.

Students and other anti-Italian demonstrators wrecked a restaurant, fought police with coffee cups, saucers, beer glasses, wine decanters and stones, then barricaded the restaurant and fought a revolver battle with troops until they were driven out and dispersed with heavy casualties.

Local Firm Is Awarded Final Wharf Contract

A final contract involving expenditure of $5778 was awarded by the Parr Terminal corporation yesterday for work on its new harbor unit. It is expected that the city council will let contract for an equal amount, bringing the last contract's total to $11,556.

As in the case of contracts awarded earlier by the Parr company and the city council, a local firm was the successful bidder, the contract going to the Mastercraft Title and Roofing company.

Ground breaking exercises will be held June 23, when city and company officials will participate. Fred D. Parr, head of the Parr Terminal company, who is now in New York, is expected to return to Richmond in time to attend the ground breaking exercises.

In line with its recently announced intention, the company yesterday filed at Martinez an authorization to change its name to the Parr-Richmond Terminal corporation.

Resignation Of Rev. Haney Will Be Acted Upon

Sunday following the service of the First Presbyterian church a congregational meeting has been called to accept Rev. E. W. Haney's resignation as pastor and to unite with Rev. Haney in asking the Presbytery to dissolve the pastoral relationship. Haney expects to leave about the middle of July to attend Synod, followed by his vacation, after which, if he is released, he will accept the pastorate of the Eagle Rock Presbyterian church, located in Los Angeles.

Malady Cause Is Sought In Blood Test

Tests of blood taken from Lupa Braccamonte, 22, one of ten persons ill in a Brentwood ranch camp from poisoning that has claimed the lives of three child victims have failed to disclose anything that might aid in determining the nature of the illness, Dr. I. O. Church, director of the county health bureau announced after receiving a report from the Hooper Foundation, San Francisco.

The physician expects to get a report from the foundation tomorrow on an analysis of vital organs and stomach contents of one of the child victims, on whom an autopsy was performed Monday.

Inquest of the deaths had been scheduled for yesterday, but Coroner Aubrey Wilson announced that the official inquiry would be postponed until complete reports are received from the foundation.

Dr. Church declared that he was satisfied that the death and illness were not caused by eating squirrels or other animals poisoned by thallium.

This suggestion, Dr. Church averred, had been followed out as far as possible, with all evidence that could be secured indicating such an occurrence as improbable. The physician declared that members of the camp denied ever having eaten squirrels.

Honolulu Is Prepared To Fete Fliers

HONOLULU, May 31.—(U.P.)—Customary preparations were being made here tonight to greet the fifth plane to fly to the island from the mainland, as it was approaching the half way mark.

Four airmen aboard the Southern Cross will receive the same hearty welcome accorded other fliers that have been successful in completing the hazardous trip, according to the plans formulated.

Members of the pursuit division of the army were assigned to meet the large plane off the coast and will probably be accompanied by Art Goebel, and Martin Jensen, who successfully negotiated the flight last fall. Goebel was first and Jensen second in the Dolo flight.

Shortly before midnight natives and residents of the island began to make their way to Wheeler Field to witness the landing.

Italy Takes Norway Offer In Role Hunt

OSLO, May 31.—(U.P.)—The Italian government has accepted the Norwegian government's offer of assistance in searching for the Italia and today began discussion of details.

The Norwegian expedition will proceed to Bergen and sail on the coal ship Ingryde for Kings Bay. Two seaplanes will be shipped from Bergen. The Italian minister issued a statement saying newspapers had misunderstood the position of Rome, following reports that Italy had rejected Norway's offer of assistance and that they were grateful for the offer.

Bride Too Partial To Liquor, Divorce Complaint Charges

George Tamblin of Richmond filed suit for divorce in Martinez yesterday against Elizabeth Tamblin, charging cruelty. He alleges that seven months after his marriage in May, 1925, his wife deserted him and has not lived with him since. During the period of married life, he states that his wife drank to excess, refused to cook and keep house for him and did not care for him. C. D. Horner of Richmond is Tamblin's attorney.

Mob Threatens Slayer Of Child

TOLEDO, May 31.—(U.P.)—Chas. Hoppe, confessed kidnapper and slayer of Dorothy Seligowski, was near collapse in his cell tonight as the state prepared for the speedy indictment and trial on a charge of first degree murder.

Hoppe, apparently afraid of the crowd which had assembled in police court, pleaded not guilty today, despite the confession he made to police. A heavy guard was played in the courtroom, but no violence was attempted.

Trembling and clinging to the arms of a detective, Hoppe entered the courtroom for arraignment and mumbled his plea with his eyes downcast. Before the curious hundreds had more than a fleeting look at the former cab driver, he had been led from the court and was on his way back to a cell.

Victim Of Auto Crash Improves

The condition of Thomas L. Woodruff, Richmond real estate operator, is steadily improving according to reports received from the Nevada City sanitarium, where he was taken following injuries sustained in an automobile accident near Grass Valley. Mrs. Woodruff, who has been at the bedside of her husband constantly has returned to Berkeley for a few days.

No Trace Found Of Missing Man

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—Police tonight had failed to find trace of H. Grady Condra, retired naval officer and widely known yachtman who disappeared early Tuesday.

Condra arrived at Newport harbor Tuesday in command of the yacht Mollie, owned by J. T. Dickerson.

Dickerson reported to police that Condra had telephoned him he would drive to the Dickerson home but failed to arrive.

Condra was chosen to pilot the yacht in a forthcoming Honolulu race and had shown keen interest in the project.

Girl Scouts Will Receive Badges

Court of award will be held at two o'clock tomorrow, afternoon in Boy Scout hall for Troop 3, of the Girl Scouts. The following will receive badges:

Julia Robbins, Gertrude Helse, Doris Nystrom, Aleen Yucka, Esther Campbell, Thea Parks, Lorraine Brown, Agnes Mortenson and others.

All girls are urged to come early at the meeting this afternoon, as arrangements for the court of award and other important business will be taken up.

The girls served a banquet for the Spanish War Veterans in Memorial hall on Memorial day. Tuesday they met to perfect plans for marching in the parade Wednesday, and also held court of honor.

THE FREIGHT IMMIGRANT

The immigration, sometimes accused of official inhumanity in its treatment of immigrants is turning human.

John Thoenig of Duesseldorf, Germany, being a thrifty soul, had himself shipped to America as "household goods." As freight he could come more cheaply than as a human being. He had himself nailed into a big packing box and made the trip as comfortably as could be expected, until within 100 yards of the pier gate at Hoboken. Then a jerky crane or a careless stevedore dropped that crate on the dock so violently that the contents yelled with pain and fright and the game was up.

Thoenig had his passport and his quota visa in proper form—he was eligible to entrance on general principles. But because he had entered irregularly and his name was not in the ship's manifest, he was technically liable to deportation. The authorities were therefore about to ship him back to Duesseldorf when two New York legislators hurried to Washington to plead his case before the immigration commissioner. They urged that the young man's courage and enterprise were worthy of a better cause, and he probably would make a desirable citizen. The commissioner was persuaded. A welfare association made up the financial difference between John as freight and John as passenger, and he remains.

This decision will be approved by many. And if technicalities can be waived in this entertaining case, they may well be waived in others now and then when deportation seems cruel and unworthy of a great government.

All that weird and unaccountable propaganda for the cancellation of war debts and German reparations has failed to convince the American people that they should adopt such a policy toward their European debtors. Yet private cliques which include prominent men of the East continue the futile effort to create public sentiment for the wiping out of these enormous obligations. They have circularized nearly everybody in the country time and again and recently have sent out another huge batch of these silly appeals, which for the most part go unheeded. Americans are as altruistic, as the people of any other nation, but are hard headed enough to perceive that business is business and that a debt is a debt. And why should they be moved by the argument that Europe is impoverished and unable to pay, when all the evidence is to the contrary?—Los Angeles Times.

Affairs of the Heart and Your Marriage Problems

Patricia Lee

Patricia Lee answers questions relating to problems of married life. Names and address should be added to letters as a mark of good faith but will not be published. Readers who desire private answers should inclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of typing, etc. Because of space limitations it is not possible to print answers to all letters received, and readers who wish an early reply should take advantage of this special service. On account of the large quantity of mail coming to this department about ten days should be allowed for a reply. Write to Patricia Lee, care of this paper.

Dear Patricia Lee:

Last fall I met a young man in love with each other. But now he tells me that he is married. Last April a year ago he married, but only lived with his wife a week. She had led a rather fast life before she was married, and continued to do so. He tried to help her change her ways, but she kept getting worse. He has sufficient grounds for an annulment and plans to get one soon. Is it right for me to keep on seeing him or shall I wait until he is free? His people have refused to have anything to do with him since his marriage. Recently, too, he has had a serious accident, and has been in the hospital three months. All this has made him very discouraged, and I know if I leave him now he will go down hill instead of doing what he is capable of. He needs some one who will believe in him. But I want to do what is right. I know no true happiness can come from doing what is not right.

BETTY.

Yours is one of those questions where outside advice is not much help. The facts, you see, would be the same whether the young man is deceiving you or not. You will have to judge from your own personal knowledge of his character if these facts as he has told them to you are true. If they are, if you are absolutely sure that he has had bad luck and needs you, then I see no reason why you should stop seeing him. Of course, I would not advise you to see him every night for the sake of your own reputation, but certainly there is no reason for stopping entirely. You can cheer him up and encourage him a great deal. I know, and that is as much the "right" thing to do for the man you love, as siding with Mrs. Grundy.

They gathered up in the sprawling branches of the old apple tree, where they all had comfortable seats. "Nobody will hear us up here," cried Joe. "Now we can make our plans."

MAPLE SYRUP

This is the season for maple sugar. The sap is running in the maple trees and the pots of syrup are boiling night and day. It is a season that the children look forward to, as they all have a sweet tooth, and many adults are children in this respect.

Maple syrup and maple sugar are natural sweets, much less refined than the commercial granulated cane sugar and denatured sugar syrups. They contain not only carbohydrates but a fair part of the necessary mineral elements including calcium, magnesium, potassium, iron, etc.

While sweet fruits and honey probably stand at the head of the list of health sweets, maple syrup and sugar come next. These may be used to sweeten beverages, baked apple and apple sauce, custards, gelatin ice cream, etc. Even a moderate amount of maple sugar candy is permissible. The use of maple syrup with bread, griddle cakes and waffles is not so advisable as there is a strong tendency to overeat and then the food material will be very likely to ferment and cause trouble. However, if the grain products are made of whole grain, a person in normal health can generally indulge occasionally without any bad effects. When maple sugar is in season the thing to do is to substitute it for other forms of sweets as there will then be much less tendency to take too much of it.

What causes valvular heart trouble and heart trouble? Also what are the symptoms of each? Heart trouble is a very indefinite term, which might be applied to any functional or organic disturbance of the heart, of which there is a great variety. Valvular heart trouble refers to an impairment of the heart valves so that the blood does not pass through the heart as it should. The causes of all kinds of heart troubles are fundamentally the same, namely, wrong habits of living. Unusual muscular exertion may bring about valvular heart trouble in the very young of old, but there is seldom any permanent bad effects from this cause in a normal young adult. The greatest number of cases are due to inflammation of the lining membrane of the heart, which is possible to have an impairment of the valves without any symptoms. On the other hand, there may be weakness, shortness of breath, swelling of the ankles and sometimes pain and palpitation.

So the children ran off, glad to get alone, for they wanted to talk about their plans for visiting the old house that night the house that everybody in the village was calling the haunted house.

"If you are going to blow those whistles, children, run out into the orchard," said Grandfather Benson.

How To Earn Money!

I can do hand sewing very quickly, so would like to open a small business of some kind in my home.

M. S.

Why not specialize in making underwear? Just now you would have the trade of the June brides, who all want hand work on their dainty underthings. Follow the list of engagement announcements and send out cards telling of the work you do. You could branch out into other lines of sewing later on.

I am a young man, 24 years old and am very much interested in writing short stories and plays. I must write them by hand, so can you tell me what firms will read hand-written manuscripts? I am also interested in dancing. My two great ambitions in life are to write or dance.—F. C.

There is absolutely no way of selling a story that is not typewritten. It is a waste of your time and the publishers' time to send them around. Why not teach dancing? You have a chance to make a great success of it in a small town. I am sure this would bring you a quicker and more satisfactory return than writing.

Mrs. Sarah Spence will answer all questions on "How to Earn Money at Home." Address her care of this paper.

GLORIOUS BETSY

NOVELIZED BY
ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"GLORIOUS BETSY," starring Dolores Costello, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel. Based on the play by Rida Johnson Young.

SYNOPSIS
Jerome Donaparte, brother of Napoleon, falls in love with Betsy Patterson on his way to America. Against the advice of his sister he marries her.

Jerome sails for France to brave the anger of the Emperor. Betsy is released from prison to land and while Jerome is about to leave the ship to plead anew with his brother a small tug comes alongside. The Emperor has come in person to command Betsy to give up Jerome. Napoleon tells of his ambitions "one for Jerome's future which will be ruined unless she renounces him. Betsy pleads desperately for her love.

"No, no, dear, you're wrong," Betsy caught his arm and pulled him back. "Really, you're wrong. Love has sheltered our hearts in such perfect peace, since we met that we've been blind to the stern laws of life. We have not realized that there are many other things in the world than our love, and so deathly has come for you, dear, we must keep faith with her—you and I." She swallowed a sob and looked up at Jerome with a smile.

"You mean that I am to leave you?" Jerome gazed in astonishment at his wife. "From you—from love that calls me to all that is best in life. Never! Never!" He caught the slight figure in his arms and held it close, gazing at his brother's defiance.

"Ah, Jerome, dear, you must not fall me in this." She stroked his arm tenderly, appealingly. "You mustn't, or all my love for you will have been in vain. Oh, help me, dear, to be worthy of you to the last, so that in after years, when I am remembering me must not men remember me must not."

"She would never bring dishonor on the man she loved." Don't you see that if you do not go, all my life I will feel that I have been the one who has ruined you?"

"But, Betty, I could never think that, no matter what happened." Jerome shook his head. "Give you up? I cannot—I will not! All my life I have been forced to do the things that I had not wanted to do. I am a free, human being, and as such I will consider my own desires above everything else."

"Guard! Guard!" Without further ado Napoleon leaped over the side of the vessel and called to the soldiers below. He scarcely glanced at his brother, but before the man could clamber up the ladder Betsy had turned to the Emperor.

"Don't you see, he doesn't understand!" she pleaded, frightened. "Don't you see he won't believe me if he thinks it's forever? I must tell him now what we said."

She glanced warily at Napoleon, trying to make him understand that once she had begun her unpleasant task he herself would see it through. "He doesn't understand, sire, that it is only for a little while." She turned to look up at Jerome. "Just a little while, dear, it won't be very long."

"A little while?" Jerome questioned, looking anxiously at his brother, and then at Betsy.

"Only for a little while, sweet heart. Did I not tell you that?" every day. Did you think I would sacrifice my love forever? She reached up and caught his face in her hands. "You're only going to leave me for a little while, just until—tomorrow—perhaps. No, no, no, he—don't worry you, forever, dear. I have only promised to lend you to him for a little while, my darling."

Napoleon was watching Betsy with open admiration, and her father braced himself for relief as he saw how calmly she would handle the situation. He, however, believed that she was being truthful, no convincing was her attitude, so certain her words.

"Land me!" Jerome frowned, looking suspiciously towards his brother. He could scarcely believe that Betsy was telling the truth. It did not sound like his brother's, he had changed his plans because a woman word. But his suspicions were allayed by Betsy.

"Yes, just lend you," she nodded with a laugh. "If you are gone now, in Paris, ready to go on to the Court of Wurttemberg, while this alliance is being forced, Princess Frederick's brother, will think that you have given me up—just as if you could." She patted his shoulder, still laughing. "But they will think so, and I shan't mind. I'll know, I'll know, and I'll be so proud of you, Jerome, doing these great things for France and for me, because I am so ambitious for your honor. It's only for this little while, it's only for a little while."

Jerome held Betsy at arm's length studying her face. "Is this true," he demanded. "You would not tell me if it were not so, would you, Betty?"

"No, no, dear, it's true." She turned to Napoleon, seeking his aid. "Oh, tell him, it's true, I've told him. Don't you see, he doesn't believe me. Tell him it's true. Tell him it's only for a little while, tell him he'll come back to me tomorrow. Tell him that I am not afraid, that I know he'll return. Tell him—"

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME

MANY THROG TO SEE CIRCUS PICTURE HERE

Last night's audience at the California Theatre had come to see "The Circus." Charlie Chaplin's "The Circus." And it was a circus they saw!

After two years Charlie Chaplin, idol of masses and classes in every clime, has given his public a smashing comedy in this new United Artists picture of his "The Circus." It's the greatest entertainment picture the world has ever made—and that is strong language.

Charlie Chaplin never disappoints. He is the one known to the constant Northern star of quantity, the unfailing clown.

In this story of circus life of which Charlie accidentally becomes a part, his genius for fun-making is again clothed in the trick derby, over-roomy shoes, funny little moustache and flexible cane. And audiences, who have come to love this screen Charlie, roared louder than ever at the antics of their idol. Exclamations of glee from the kids each time Charlie did his stuff, whether on a tight rope, flitting hot dogs from a stand, or making faces at the baby, boomed from the first rows to the ceiling. Fearful "goos" and "ahs" were crooned lest Charlie be caught by the strong arm of the law or fall off a slack wire. But Charlie came out on top in every situation but one, for he doesn't get the girl in "The Circus."

The girl, who wears a fluffy skirt and rides a great white steed, is Merna Kennedy, eighteen years old, and blessed with red hair and blue-green eyes. This is Merna's first picture role, for she went from the musical comedy stage directly to the part of Charlie Chaplin's leading lady. Miss Kennedy, it is pleasant to report, is more than pretty. She gives an intelligent, restrained performance, and her characterization is always believable.

"The Circus" was written, directed and produced by Charlie Chaplin, as have been his earlier films. But "The Circus" is different. To be sure, Charlie is as wistful as ever, but in "The Circus" he seems to be the old Chaplin, the Chaplin of "The Kid," "Shoulder Arms," and "The Floor-walker." Here there is the old spontaneous hilarity, timing and laugh-getting. Indeed, the comedian himself declared when "The Circus" was being made that it would be a low-brow comedy for high-brows.

Other film features include: Cruising the Arctic, K. K. Quest and News.

LIGHT COLORED STOCKINGS ARE MINUS APPEAL

Estelle Taylor, wife of Jack Dempsey and featured player in Columbia's "Lady Raffles" which will be the attraction at the Richmond Theatre, today has made a careful study on the psychology of women's hose. She is an authority on pantomime expression and declares that personal appearance has much to do with expressiveness.

"The most beautiful pair of legs in the world lose all their appeal unless properly garbed," said Miss Taylor, whose shapely limbs are shown off to advantage in "Lady Raffles." The wise woman spends more time in the selection of her hosiery than in all the rest of her wardrobe combined.

"Light colored hose are devoid entirely of sex appeal and the moment they lose their freshness they are 'nil' in the matter of feminine allure. I have banned light hose altogether from my wardrobe. From experience I find that dark nude and a cow-weeb shade of dusk are the most effective hues for both professional and non-professional wear."

A dead black is as disastrous to the appearance as are the light shades and should be worn only by the mature woman. "High heels are also invaluable to give poise and a sense of regality. While the low heel makes one feel extremely youthful the entire personality is changed."

Miss Taylor wears nine different pairs of hose in "Lady Raffles," with these go an equal number of pairs of shoes, each of which arrives in height of heel according to the mode the actress desires to express.

The cast in support of Miss Taylor includes such screen favorites: Roland Drew, Lilyan Tashman, Ernest Hilliard and W. Landis. The production was made under the direction of R. William Neill.

Other film features include "King of the Jungsles" and Felix the Cat.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

COOLIDGE TO SPEND SUMMER IN WISCONSIN

By ALFRED P. RECK
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, May 31.—(U.P.)—President Coolidge will spend his summer vacation in the land of the fur hunters in northwestern Wisconsin as far away from politicians and campaign activities as he could go.

The announcement was made today that the summer white house would be established at Cedar Island Lodge, 28 miles from Superior on the Brule River.

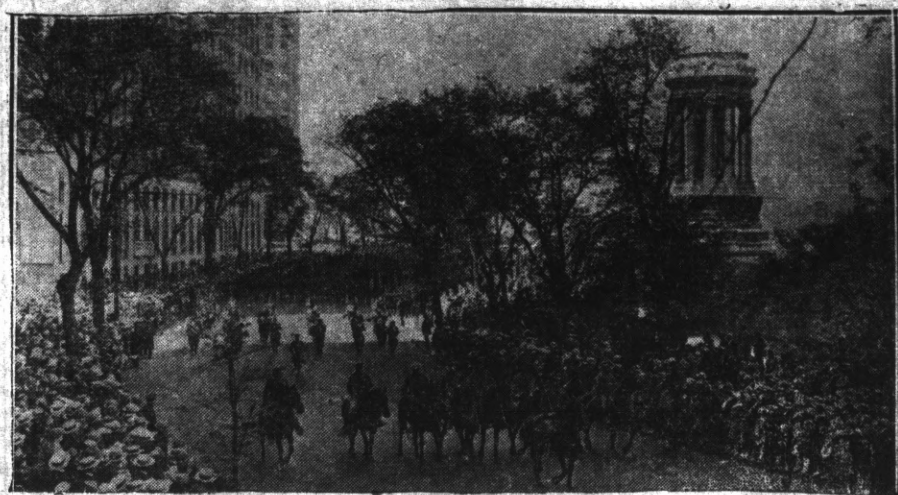

Last year the president lived among the cowboys and Indians of the Dakotas. This summer he will cast for trout in the stream famous as the old-time fur trade route between Lake Superior and the Mississippi river.

Some time ago it was said at the White House that the President intended to spend his summer in the east so he could be near Northampton, Mass., where Mrs. Coolidge's mother is seriously ill.

However, the lure of speckled beauties jumping in the swirling waters of the wilderness stream called him west, it was explained.

Politics had nothing to do with the selection, it was said. The opportunities for complete relaxation and excellent fishing were the deciding factors in the choice of a vacation site, according to those close to the president.

Fair Girl Stowaway Hid In Torpedo-Room Of Ship

By BRENT MARK

The story of how Miss Rumilda Avery, 19-year-old Iowa flapper, went to New York to defend three sailors accused of helping her stow away on the destroyer Sand, and an account of her adventures on the naval vessel.

"The boys are accused of helping me stow away aboard the destroyer, but of course, they had nothing to do with it," avers Miss Avery.

"When we were released at Key West, Fla. (I am including the three girls who stowed away on other vessels and whom I did not even know) we were each examined by a naval officer.

"I don't know how the others got aboard. One of them, a 15-year-old girl from St. Petersburg, said she had been persuaded to go on, although she admitted she wanted to go.

"I believe she was scared by her father. She had stowed away on the destroyer Billingsley.

Were Sailors' Uniform

"It was at 3 o'clock in the morning of April 10 that I approached the dock at New Orleans where the U. S. S. Sand was moored and saw a guard at the gangplank. For a moment I got cold feet. Then I got an idea. He did not suspect me because I was in a sailor's uniform and looked like one.

"Stealthily I crept up over the stern and slid in. I had thrown my suit case in. Next I climbed into the torpedo room and hid there.

"I understand that one of the boys whom I knew has since been kept in chains, and that the court-martial verdict is now before Secretary Wilbur. I hope he frees him. Why is it his fault that I happen to be an acquaintance?

"Soon the vessel began to move. I got a headache. I had never been on boats before. I will admit I began to regret my lark when I became terribly seasick.

"I had taken along with me some canned goods and fruit. I tried to eat an apple, but the pieces stuck in my throat.

"On the second night I sneaked into the storeroom where I found a blanket. I wrapped myself in it and began to feel better.

"Then a sailor walked in. I recognized him as one of the boys who had been at my party. He told me I was a fool, and advised me to get off; but, of course, I couldn't do it in midocean. Then he went away.

"Soon afterward I heard a clatter. Several officers came in.

"How in hell did you get on the boat?" one asked. I simply smiled.

"He ordered me to follow him until we reached the captain, who began to ask all kinds of questions. I must admit some of them were annoying, but I don't blame him. There certainly was room for suspicion.

"After I had explained the circumstances, I asked him if there was any place I could take a bath. He laughed.

"This is no Leviathan you're on," he said. Then he sent me down to the officers' quarter, where I got a chance to clean up. I asked him if I should change into women's clothing. 'Heavens, no,' he declared.

"And so for the rest of the day I sat in the captain's cabin reading a magazine and one of the boys inquired me fool there.

"At Key West I was led before a naval board, questioned, given $50 to go home and escorted by the mayor to the nearest railway station.

"I would have gone back to New Orleans, except that I was worried about the fate of the boy who first saw me in the storeroom. So I liked to Ramrock, Key, Fla., stayed there for a day and then set for New York.

S. P. BEGINS ACTIVITY AT BRIDGE SITE

Engaged in work the significance of which is being shrouded in secrecy, a party of ten surveyors has been operating out of Martinez for the past week, running lines between this city and Port Costa.

Those in charge of the party have declined to state the purpose of the surveys or for whom they are being made.

Among several reports that are circulating are that the surveyors are engaged by the California Water Service Corporation and the Southern Pacific.

The latter, however, is the more generally credited with apparently authentic report having it that the men are engaged in correcting discrepancies that exist between government and railroad surveys in this district.

This latter version has it that the surveys are in connection with Southern Pacific plans to double track between Martinez and Port Costa preliminary to construction of the proposed Carquinez bridge.

It has been indicated that the surveying crew will be employed here for another thirty days. The party is stopping at the Travelers Hotel.

PYLE FAILS TO POST PRIZES FOR WINNERS

NEW YORK, May 31.—(U.P.)—The cry "can Pyle pay" was raised here today when O. C. Pyle, promoter of the derby race failed to turn over $48,500 in cash to Tex Rickard for payment to the ten winners Friday night.

Pyle explained the slight slip-up by saying he had been unable to have the money transferred from a California bank to New York in time to complete the transaction. The money, he assured newspaper men, will be placed in Rickard's hands Friday. If the money is forthcoming the winners will receive their reward prior to the start of the 26 hour relay race, in Madison Square Garden Friday night. Andrew Payne, Claremore, Oklahoma, winner of the derby has $25,000 due him.

Lions Club Will Meet Bank Team

The Lions and American Trust clubs will tangle on the First street grounds this afternoon in a Commercial Twilight league contest.

Fighters Take Short Workout

NEW YORK, May 31.—(U.P.)—Tommy Loughran, lightweight heavyweight champ, and Pete Latso, took light workouts today to keep in trim for the scheduled 15 round title bout at Ebbetts field, Friday night. The match was scheduled for Wednesday, but was postponed because of rain.

Loughran skipped rope for ten minutes and played handball. Latso did light gym workouts.

The betting odds have mounted 3 to 1 on Loughran which Latso money available.

MAYOR WALKER REGISTERS ONCE MORE

It is seldom indeed you will find any one who will run to form so truly as Mayor James J. Walker of New York. Even a Man of War has bowed to an Upset and even a Dempsey has his Tunney, but Mayor Walker has yet to fail to stop any show into which he is injected.

Loughran skipped rope for ten minutes and played handball. Latso did light gym workouts.

The betting odds have mounted 3 to 1 on Loughran which Latso money available.

It seems to be that Mayor Walker always strikes his warmest notes when he talks on sport or things related to it. It was no that night, at any event. He drew a parallel between sport and business that must have silenced those who are blinded to the underlying integrity of competition by the glitter thrown off by the huge piles of gold which serve as sporting stakes.

John McEntee Bowman, distinguished patron of the turf and Berghard F. Gimbel, noted merchant prince and amateur sportsman on one side, and Babe Ruth and Tex Rickard, on the other, nodded in agreement as Mayor Walker smashed home one point after another.

He assailed the thoughtlessness of fans, the selfishness of fans, who repudiate the lavish praise of Monday on Tuesday. He preferred, he said, the honest performer in any line of sport to the dishonest business man or professional man. He visioned sport on the high level to which it rightfully belonged, and he painted an affectionate portrait.

"I've heard a lot of speakers," was the comment of Biff Jones, West Point football coach, as the mayor concluded, "but he tops them all." Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, marveled at the logic of the address. "What a man," said Boston Jack.

Gene Sarazen tendered the mayor as great a compliment as any. "I'd rather be able to talk like that than win the British open golf championship and the United States open hand running," was Gene's tribute.

IT WAS EASY TO SPOT LOU GEHRIG

Mayor Walker's speech served as the pleasant climax of an epochal evening. From the moment that the huge audience responded to the warning gavel of Toastmaster Grover A. Whalen, everything went off in splendid fashion.

The cream of sport, the cream of Broadway, was represented in the overflowing grand ballroom.

Every place one looked sporting champions, famous headliners, intruded on the view.

Sitting next to Rickard was Sammy Mandell, who successfully defended his lightweight title against the crushing Jimmy McLarnin. Next to Mandell was Julian W. Curtis, noted, perhaps, as president of A. G. Spaulding Bros., but better known in the college world as Yale's most ardent and most influential alumnus.

Near by was Tommy Loughran, light heavyweight champion of the world.

James I. Bush of the Equitable Trust company, Richard Hoyt, Walter Chrysler, Walter Camp and other members of the Madison Square Garden club, the "600 millionaires" of song and story, were there.

Across from their table were the entire teams of the New York Yankees, New York Giants and Brooklyn Robins. The burly figure of Larrupin' Lou Gehrig marked the Yankee tables.

Lefty O'Doul and Shanty Hogan conversed animatedly with Arthur Brown. Joe Dundee, welterweight champion of the world was there from Baltimore with a party of ten. Chairman Frank Weiner of Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission had come from Philly with Tommy Loughran's party of twenty guests.

Bill Duffy, Billy Lahiff, Jack Kearns, Bobby Crawford, Lou Davis and Frankie Marlowe had a group of five tables in the center of the ballroom. George W. Loft, candy magnate, was with Marlowe and had a great evening.

Jimmy Hussey swapped small talk with Vincent Richards and young Al Smith at Lahiff's table. Sammy Wolff of Chicago chatted with Leo Lomski at Bill Duffy's table. Harry Richmond observed Lou Davis concocting abba dabbas with ill-concealed admiration.

Johnny Dundee, Charlie Hand, secretary to the mayor, Vinnie Turner, Bill Kennedy and Art McGovern stayed for the entire program. Jimmy Johnston had a table of pugilistic luminaries that would have done credit to a Rickard booking agency. Ted (Kid) Lewis was with them.

Jess McMahon was next to Reggie McNamara, the kike star. Stanley Rosoff, son of the subway builder, seemed to know every one in the room. Autograph hunters never did stop soliciting signatures.

JACK SHARKEY SEES HIMSELF WIN, LOSE

The surprise of the evening, the first release of Leon Britton's recently completed "Battles of the Century," was a knockout.

At the dias, Jack Sharkey observed himself knocking out Jim Maloney and losing to Dempsey with a great smile. Even Tex Rickard grinned when Britton's picture kidded the holders of alleged "ringside" seats at Chicago. Mandell followed with keen interest the pictures of the first Leonard-Tender fight.

Ordinarily the task of the office seeking the man is much complicated by a forest of upraised hands, and a multitude of voices shouting, "Here I am."—Detroit Free Press.

Business always picks up again when a few hundred thousand people have paid the last installments on their Christmas purchases.

Voliva's theory that the world is flat gets some support from the condition of certain of the presidential booms.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Parent Teachers Plan For Father's Night At School

Preparations are being made for "Father's Night" to be held at the Grant school under the direction of the Grant Parent-Teachers association. The program will commence at 8 o'clock and will include two playlets, one by the Grant school children and the other by the Junior high school children and several musical numbers will follow.

Harry Caldwell, inspector of identification for the Oakland police department will be the special speaker of the evening. He will speak on the question of juvenile delinquency and will present many interesting aspects of the subject.

The program follows: Opening with the Star Spangled Banner, played by Miss Ila Blundell of Oakland. Opening remarks on P-T-A, organization, by Mrs. Billie Brown; a duet by Martha and Mary Baldwin, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Baldwin; a recitation by Phyllis Hudson; a violin solo, by Patricia Radke; a playlet by Mrs. Ritzenthaler's class of the Grant school; a violin number by Elma Jane Phillips, accompanied by Mrs. Baldwin; a recitation by Everett Lambrecht; piano solo, by Lorraine Storey; impersonations, imitations, recitations and songs by Coa Bastin, accompanied by their children Ruth Catherine and Theodore. The speaker of the evening will be Harry Caldwell; a playlet will be presented by the Junior high school students; comedy stunts by Mr. Hillier; cantations by Ila Blundell. The evening will be closed with the audience singing America.

The ladies on the committee are Mrs. W. V. Keitz, chairman assisted by the Mesdames B. Banner, Phillips, Hall, Edwin Leist, Nee, E. Lambrecht, Ausfall, Poole and Coedys.

Great pains have been taken to prepare a fine program for Father's Night and a large attendance is desired.

HELEN WILLS LONE HOPE IN TENNIS TILT

By RALPH HEINZEN

United Press Staff Correspondent
ROLAND GARROS, STADIUM, Paris, May 31.—(U.P.)—Helen Wills remains the lone hope of the United States in the French tennis championships. Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., was eliminated today in the men's singles by Henri Cochet, French Davis Cup winner. Although Hunter is defeat played one of the headiest and most brilliant games of his career, he could not match the uncanny court tactics of the little Frenchman, who came from behind to win, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Babe Ruth Clouts 19th Circuit Swat

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, May 31.—Babe Ruth hit his nineteenth homer of the season off Irving Hadley of the Washington Senators in the third inning today's game, which was won by the Yankees, 4 to 0.

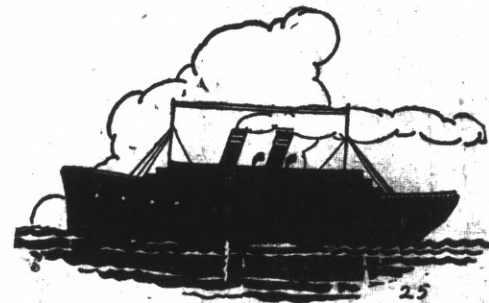

Ruth is eleven days ahead of his 1927 record. He hit his 19th and 20th of Bukeye, of the Indians last season on June 11. Today's homer was a long fly into the right field stand with no one on base.

DRUIDS WHIST TO BE HELD TONIGHT

Point Richmond Circle No. 123 of the United and Ancient Order of Druids will hold a whist party in Druids hall tonight. Lovely prizes will be awarded to the winners of the evening, also a door prize will be given away. The games will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock and Mrs. Lillie Summers is the chairman in charge of the event.

Industries Shipping Railroad's Deep Water Pay Rolls

Are Five of the essentials to the growth and development of a city.

RICHMOND has deep water, two trans-continental railroads, and cheap fuel.

These factors are what attract industries to a city

With the industries come increased assessed valuation, and increased pay rolls.

More pay rolls, mean additional population, and prosperity.

No other city on the Pacific has the advantages to offer to industry.

development is always expected to get some favors.

It is not so stated in the letter of May 9, but it is said that the El Dorado officials are taking the stand that the city is maintaining out of city funds for private interference on the other side of the harbor, and that as the company is going to actually spend its own money, and give the people a great development without board cost, it is entitled to similar favors.

Another condition stated in the letter of May 9, is that in case there is any change in the present bulkhead or pierhead line, any intervening islands facing the site owned by the El Dorado company revert to that company. This can easily be assured. As a matter of fact, it is said, the proposition to make any such change is settled as it would result in blocking development of the west side of the harbor and of preventing the ultimate proper development of the harbor in general.

The El Dorado company is anxious for speeding up of action, as it is waiting on developments there to place an order for $250,000 worth of modern equipment, which is to go into the new plant, wherever it is located.

Business men are anxious about location of the plant as it will have 150 permanent employees on its payroll, will spend many thousands in construction and will result in the bringing of other factories to the west side of the harbor, the El Dorado location being part of the general scheme of the Santa Fe's great industrial and shipping development.

Cottage Bought By Catledge Here

preventing vibration and "pull." Insert or release it by merely pressing a button. Guard of new type gives you the benefit of the full shaving edge. Learn how kind it is to your face, how swiftly and gently it glides through the toughest beard or tiniest hairs without roughing or hurting the tenderest skin.

You'll say the razor is worth the million it cost us. You'll know our 21 years of research was not in vain. You'll realize, as do hundreds of thousands of others who acted quickly, that this is not just "another razor" — but a revolutionary development — an entirely new shaving principle.

It cost a million, it's worth a million, but it's free to you. Insure permanent shaving comfort. Act before the supply is exhausted. Be one of the lucky million. Only a short time left! Go now.
